Looking for a dynamic youth with a knack for adapting depending on the situation and striving for excellence in any task he or she gets down to? That's me! My stance on management is eminently straightforward – I simply strive to be the quality leader I would want to be guided by and work with. If a computer isn't working, I am not one to straightaway call tech-support. Instead, I will get down and ensure all the plugs are well connected, attempt to figure out and rectify the issue myself.

In this small and integrated world, to stay relevant and come up on top, soft skills are as important as hard skills. Having said that, despite my youthful exuberance, I have acquired a wealth of experience over time in communicating and interacting with people, and not only running events/projects, but leading them. This has not only allowed me to be both responsive and flexible, but dependable as well. I take joy from learning and constantly upgrading myself as I understand the importance in the need to value-add any family you are part of. Hence, being able to shadow and be under the tutelage of your talented staff will not only allow me to grow as a person and gain valuable experience and knowledge, it will also provide me a platform to add value to pslove.

I have read and understood the tremendous success of your company and the long way you have come from your humble beginnings. That is precisely what attracted me to pslove – to be able to work with a pool of passionate and skilled staff who were willing to spare no effort and to give it a whirl to reach the heights where they are at today. My keen interest in the technological field has allowed me to self-learn python and have a go at Java. This epitomizes my willingness to learn and upgrade my skills to stay relevant and contribute as much as possible, regardless of my current knowledge abilities.

I am currently serving the nation as a medic in the SAF. As such, I would be able to commit myself from the second week of February 2019, up until the end of July/August, depending on the exact day I matriculate into the university. I hope you would seriously consider hiring me as an intern and provide me the platform to value-add your company while at the same time allowing me to shadow, learn and be mentored by your batch of accomplished and proficient staff.
